

TROPICAL WEATHER UPDATE

September 27, 2004

WE WILL UPDATE THIS INFORMATION THREE TIMES DAILY

10 A.M., 3 P.M., 7 P.M. ON CRUSINGPOWER.COM

Royal Caribbean International and Celebrity Cruises continue to closely monitor Hurricane Jeanne and its aftermath to ensure our guests enjoy safe and comfortable cruises and to make certain our ships steer clear of any storms.

The safety and comfort of our guests are always the foremost concern of Royal Caribbean International and Celebrity Cruises. We are pleased to report that our ships in the Caribbean are sailing in calm seas and warm, sunny weather.

Because of Hurricane Jeanne, Royal Caribbean International is altering the itineraries of several ships. Itinerary changes are listed below. We will update this information three times daily, at 10 a.m., 3 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Due to damage caused by Hurricane Jeanne, Royal Caribbean International is currently unable to sail into or out of Port Canaveral, Florida. Navigational equipment that allows vessels to safely enter and leave the port is not yet fully operational. Normal port operations should resume later this week.

In addition, Royal Caribbean International is currently unable to bring ships to Coco Cay, Bahamas, our private island. Storm-related repairs are ongoing and should be complete in the coming weeks. Storm recovery efforts in Freeport, Bahamas, and Georgetown, Cayman Islands, prevent us from visiting those ports. We look forward to returning to those locations in the very near future.

Ships scheduled to make port calls at these locations in the coming weeks will make alternative port calls or spend the day at sea.

ROYAL CARIBBEAN INTERNATIONAL

Ships sailing from Port Canaveral

UPDATED: Sovereign of the Seas,® normally scheduled to depart today on a four-night sailing, will delay its return from its current sailing and its departure for its next sailing until Tuesday. The ship will now return to Port Everglades, Florida, for its current sailing. Royal Caribbean will transport guests from Port Everglades to Port Canaveral and the Orlando airport at the conclusion of this sailing. In addition, the ship will leave on its next sailing at 8 p.m. local time Tuesday from Port Everglades. In addition, the ship will sail a modified itinerary that will end Friday, October 1. The ship will visit Nassau, Bahamas, on Wednesday and Thursday. Guests who sail on this cruise will receive an onboard credit of $250 per stateroom and a certificate for a 50 percent discount on a future Royal Caribbean sailing of seven nights or less, which departs on or before December 15, 2005, excluding holidays. Guests booked on this sailing who cancel their cruise will receive a letter of credit for the amount paid for the cruise portion of their sailing. Travel agent commissions will be protected. Due to the aftermath of Hurricane Jeanne, this itinerary is subject to change.

UPDATED: Mariner of the Seas,® normally scheduled to depart Sunday on a seven-night sailing, will delay its return from its current sailing and its departure for its next sailing until Tuesday. The ship will now return to the Port of Miami for its current sailing. Royal Caribbean will transport guests from the Port of Miami to Port Canveral and the Orlando airport at the conclusion of this sailing. In addition, the ship will leave on its next sailing at 8 p.m. local time Tuesday from Miami. The ship, which will sail a modified itinerary that will end Sunday, October 3, will visit Nassau, Bahamas, on Wednesday; and Cozumel, Mexico, on Friday. Guests who sail on this cruise will receive an onboard credit of $500 per stateroom and a certificate for a 50 percent discount on a future Royal Caribbean sailing of seven nights or less, which departs on or before December 15, 2005, excluding holidays. Guests booked on this sailing who cancel their cruise will receive a letter of credit for the amount paid for the cruise portion of their sailing. Travel agent commissions will be protected. Due to the aftermath of Hurricane Jeanne, this itinerary is subject to change.

Ships sailing from the Port of Miami

Explore of the of the Seas,® normally scheduled to depart Sunday on a seven-night sailing, will delay its return from its current sailing and its departure for its next sailing until today. The ship will delay its departure until 9 p.m. local time today, and sail a modified itinerary that will end Sunday, October 3. The ship will visit Costa Maya, Mexico, on Wednesday; Cozumel, Mexico, on Thursday; and Nassau, Bahamas, on Saturday. Guests who sail on this cruise will receive an onboard credit of $250 per stateroom and a certificate for a 50 percent discount on a future Royal Caribbean sailing of seven nights or less, which departs on or before December 15, 2005, excluding holidays. Guests booked on this sailing who cancel their cruise will receive a letter of credit for the amount paid for the cruise portion of their sailing. Travel agent commissions will be protected. Due to the aftermath of Hurricane Jeanne, this itinerary is subject to change.

Navigator of the Seas,® normally scheduled to depart Saturday on a seven-night sailing, will delay its return from its current sailing and its departure for its next sailing until today. The ship will delay its departure until 9 p.m. local time today and sail a modified itinerary that will end Saturday, October 2. The ship will visit Ocho Rios, Jamaica, on Wednesday; and Labadee, Hispaniola, on Thursday. Guests who sail on this cruise will receive an onboard credit of $500 per stateroom and a certificate for a 50 percent discount on a future Royal Caribbean sailing of seven nights or less, which departs on or before December 15, 2005, excluding holidays. Guests booked on this sailing who cancel their cruise will receive a letter of credit for the amount paid for the cruise portion of their sailing. Travel agent commissions will be protected. Due to the aftermath of Hurricane Jeanne, this itinerary is subject to change.

Ships sailing from the Port of Baltimore

Grandeur of the Seas,® currently on its September 24 sailing, will sail a revised itinerary. The ship will make port calls in King's Wharf, Bermuda, today; Labadee, Hispaniola, on Wednesday; and Nassau, Bahamas, on Friday. Due to the aftermath of Hurricane Jeanne, this itinerary is subject to change.

CELEBRITY CRUISES

Ships sailing from Port Everglades

Century,<sup>SM</sup> normally scheduled to depart Saturday on a seven-night sailing, will delay its return from its current sailing and its departure for its next sailing until today at 8 p.m. local time. The ship will sail a modified itinerary that will end Saturday, October 2. The ship will visit Belize City, Belize, on Wednesday; Cozumel, Mexico, on Thursday; and Key West, Florida, on Friday. Guests who sail on this cruise will receive an onboard credit of $500 per stateroom and a certificate for a 50 percent discount on a future Celebrity sailing of seven nights or less, which departs on or before December 15, 2005, excluding holidays. Guests booked on this sailing who cancel their cruise will receive a letter of credit for the amount paid for the cruise portion of their sailing. Travel agent commissions will be protected. Due to the aftermath of Hurricane Jeanne, this itinerary is subject to change.

At this time, no other Royal Caribbean International or Celebrity Cruises ships are being impacted by tropical weather. We will continue to closely monitor weather conditions and update this information at 7 p.m. today.